A French husband told a Chinese friend: "My marriage is perfect. My wife and I have a perfect understanding. She defers to me on all the important matters. And I defer to her on all the unimportant matters."

"How does it work out?"

"Well, in ten years of marriage no important matters have come up."

"What is that one?" asked the Frenchman.

"Or Life Imprisonment"

The parents of children who attend the Sunset School, San Francisco, gathered one night to hear a talk by a specialist in child psychiatry. After he finished, he called for questions and patiently handed out advice on behavior problems.

The pleasant evening broke up as a grim-faced father in a back seat arose and asked seriously: "Doesn't he do you feel about 'capital punishment'?"

Chorus Line Hooper's Honor Graduate Of Junior College

NEW YORK—Luis Jean Precht was graduated cum laude from Junior College recently. She not only finished school with honors in a chorus line, sitting with babies, working in a diner and a twirling from a circus as high above the ground as the history tenement in which she lives.

On the day she was graduated she said, "This is really a big thrill for me, but I can't say I'm a whiz about getting graduated as about getting the work over. I really didn't like studying very much. I want to do other things, exciting things."

When she said work she knew what she was talking about. She was in Junior high school when she got her first job in Walton high school, where she was graduated the age of 15. She bought her education money by baby-sitting one night and tutoring French the next.

One semester after she enrolled in Junior college—on proceeds of the tutoring and some "trousers" she ran out of money and took a job dancing with Ringling Bros. Circus. She was paid $1.00 a week and she had to climb a 10-foot rope and do upside down pirouettes in the air, minus a net.

She recalls that she thought, "I can do that. I'll never be afraid of anything again."

The 480 a week with the circus for six months earned enough to send her back to Junior college. She broke again and had to get out. She then went to work for a man who won a chorus girl job with her 1948 revue, "Lafayette."

She then, broke again, she traveled with the Radio City Rockettes as captain of their chorus line. She also tutored college students in French and French-speaking immigrants in English.

In her spare time, Luis took care of her three-year-old brother, Joey, one of five children in the Precht family.

Colin, 1,000 Years Old Found In Norway Silver Treasure
NEW YORK—A treasure of silver, estimated at 1,000 years old, including 800 coins of great archeological value, was found recently during excavations in Trondheim, Norway.

Some of the coins were minted by the Anglo-Saxon king, Ethelbert, and some by Canute, king of England and Denmark. Others are of German and Arabic origin. The coins may throw new light on trade routes and cultural currents in Viking times.

The find includes two silver crucifixes from Norway's early Christian period. Only one similar crucifix has been found before in Norway.

Gets Around
She, with indifference, "I believe I may have seen you somewhere." He, with equal indifference: "There is no doubt you have. I go there often."

INTERESTED IN DETAILS
A stranger walked into the pet shop and asked for the proprietor. "I have come to inquire about your advertisement in this morning's paper for a man to retail imported canaries," he announced.

Glad to see you, sir. Are you interested in the job? "asked the proprietor.

Festive Melon Salad

Vine ripened cantaloupe and honeydew melons, cousins in appearance and refreshing flavor are perfect in salads for all occasions. The cool, sweet meat of melons is tantalizingly good with mayonnaise, and the appearance of melon salads is always appetizing whether you slice the meat, cube it or make balls.

Melon and cherry salad highlights the good flavors of both melons in a salad you'll enjoy making for your family, and for all happy guest occasions which may be yours this season.

Melon and Cherry Salad. Honeydew melon balls. Bing cherries. Sliced peeled cantaloupe. Leaf lettuce.

Place rings of cantaloupe on lettuce on a round chop plate. Fill the centers of the rings with the honeydew balls and cherries. Put a bowl of mayonnaise in the center of the plate.

He said the more expensive and better watch, the sooner it will stop when it comes in contact with his person.

Mr. Smith asked Roberts Borders for an explanation and he told him the only cause he could think of was that there is so much electricity in his body it causes watches to stop. Mr. Smith must be super charged electric dynamo.

Local pickers and cotton growers report that it never gets too dry for cotton in this region. But the record breaking heat and excessive sunshine exploded that theory. Even the dry weather advocates now admit that it can get too dry even for cotton. Scattered showers during the past two weeks have improved crop conditions in a few spots in the county.
